I'm looking for someone to re-install trailer skirting around my really old trailer after having it re-leveled. Prefer to have it done as soon as possible. Trailer is 6' off the ground at one end and 1' off the ground at the other end. Trailer is 12'x73' and there are 2 decks at about 10'x24' each.

I am looking for the least expensive means possible to underskirt the trailer again. I will purchase materials, you help me find the least expensive means to do the skirting and provide the labor to do it. There is no specific requirement for the materials other than the required ventilation.

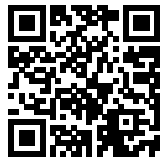

The decks were originally latticed and not skirted. Color of materials are unimportant as we will likely be repainting the exterior anyway.

There will need to be an access door at the tall end of the underskirting.

I'm looking to get this done as soon as possible so if you respond, there will be a fast response to you. I'm purposefully not including a phone number in this posting because of so many wackadoodles out there. Contractors with licenses and insured/bonded are preferred. Please let me know in your response what your ballpark labor would cost and what you suggest for materials. If you can ballpark that, all the better!
