This bird cage is a piece of furniture and it is still in the packing crate! I paid close to $2900.00 after shipping. If someone comes and gets it they can have it for $500. If you want to take it out here and put it together, that is fine, to check it. But the price is firm at $500. If my husband puts it together the price will go way up. For a large parrot or cockatoo. It looks like a hutch. Similar to the ones shown on this page in row 14. You may need to cut and paste. I believe it is dark mahogany.

There is a filter fan and everything. I bought it, never put it together and then divorced happened. So someone who would love a beautiful piece of furniture that is a bird cage and keeps the dander down, you can get an incredible buy within the next couple of days before my husband moves it out.

It is very large and is in the packing crate, we have a trailer and can get it to you if you are located around York.
