I'm selling my 1997 Chrysler Concorde. It's a great car and runs excellent. The 3.5L engine is one of the best Chrysler made, and is rock solid dependable. I rebuilt the entire front end two years ago when I went across country on vacation. New hubs, wheel bearings, tie rods and ends, struts and springs, linkages and control arms. A brake job with new pads, rotors, drums and shoes were put and this all was well over a thousand dollars. Everything works as it should, it runs, drives and shifts well.

Tires are good. Rocker panels have rust. Rust spot on front corner of hood. There's only about 95k low miles on this car. These cars are known to go well over 200k.

I'm open to reasonable offers, no low balls. I don't have to sell this vehicle, but it doesn't get driven enough to warrant keeping insurance on it as I have several others I use.

Clear title in.
