Hi and thank you for taking a moment. I am a single father who is currently seeking to move from his residence due to the landlord selling the property. I have a job and do work hard but due to on challenge after another ran out of time for trying to achieve finding a place. In 2/weeks I would be able to financially afford a room as well as possibly a vehicle which is a necessity but at the moment trying to achieve both of these at once I am basically homeless. I know many will ask where are friends and family. So let me answer that before it is asked. Family that would be available or have the capability to assist in this matter live out of state, While family aren't as compassionate in helping one another achieve or survive. So with that said. If anyone has the means the compassion graciousness and empathy to help someone who is truly trying to achieve a dream or two please I ask you to contact me asap. I am concerned about how soon I have left before I am forced out onto the street. I am clean respectful, quiet, honest and appreciative. I just need a moment to catch up and get back on my feet.

So if this sounds like something you can do have the ability to do and the compassion to do I implore you to please give me a hand.

Thanks for taking the time to listen

hope to hear from you soon as well as to be shown that there still are good compassionate people still in the world.
