Hi! I'm a Boston University student who is providing tutoring to the Boston area.

I'm an experienced tutor for SAT, ACT, MCAS, Pre-Calculus, Calc I, Calc II, Algebra I, Algebra II, Intermediate/College Algebra, and other subjects. Tutoring is incredibly rewarding for me and I like to help my students improve their understanding of the field of mathematics as well as improve their grades and confidence in test-taking.

I mostly tutor high school, college, and adult students. I provide both in-person and online tutoring. For in-person lessons, we can meet at your home, library, coffee shop, or another location of your choosing.

Here's reviews from some of my students:

"Zachary presents new subjects and clarifies the basics of math exhaustively and thoroughly. One of the reasons I struggled in algebra so much is because each new topic is built on the one before, so not understanding the basics and struggling to understand other sections made it very hard to move forward and understand new topics. I was very impressed with Zachary's patience and his willingness to explain things over and over again. He will make sure the material is understood before moving on to something new. I would recommend Zachary to anyone who wants a better understanding of algebra. He's truly great!" - Ariel R.

"Zachary and I worked together for only five hours before I took my next ACT test. In that time, I gained a lot of useful tips and information and ended up raising my score from a composite 24 to a 29! Without the increase I might not have gotten into the college I applied to. He worked through every problem I had difficulty with and made sure I was able to tackle anything similar to it in the future. He was a great help to me."
