I'm going to include my original post to this just because I don't have the energy to rewrite this again for the third time. Please do not respond unless you can really help, I'm not looking for a hand out just someone to help me till I can figure something else out or get back on my feet. I'm really disheartened by some of the responses I have gotten. They are just so rude, and derogatory. I hope you never find yourself in a position where you have to ask total strangers for help. It sucks and I would give anything to change it.

I thought i had everything figured out in the morning, which is when i have to leave where i have been staying the last 3 nights and will be back on the street. But at the last minuet tonight the person changed there mind, which is fine. But it really sucks because i made all these plans and now have some of my things with me and cant just sit on the side of the road with all my belongings. I dont even know if the person was genuine at this point. But i'm tired and scared and just exhausted. I just really need to find a place before tomorrow by noon. I dont know what i'm going to do about everything i have with me now. I cant take it back where i picked it up from and just i dont know. The person i have been staying with i just meet the other day and he can vouch for me and let you know i'm not a werido or creep or thief, i'm a normal person. I was up very early today for a job interview so i am going to try to stay up as late as possible to answer and responses but if i fall asleep i'll write back first thing in the morning. The original post is down below.

Original Post:

I posted last night about having nowhere to stay due to something's going on in my life right now. I was very fortunate to have found someone who gave me a place to stay last night. But again I will have to leave in the morning. So I am again searching for a more long term situation. When I say long term I'm really only meaning a month. I am at work force write now as I'm writing this email. I am filling out job applications and I have a job interview on Thursday also so I am doing everything in my power to be able to take care of my self in the very near future. I'm just looking for somewhere to stay safe til I'm able to do this. I am also looking into shelters since I don't think I'm to good for one. It is just that they are all full at the moment. I don't have really anything to offer, but I do have my food stamps about $100 worth I can put food in the house or even just take care of myself so you do not feel responsible. I am in no way looking to exchange any sexual favors of any kind. Just looking for someone who may have the resources to help. I'm not going to go into the whole situation on here, but will let you know I'm not on drugs, I have no criminal record, and

I'm not a thief. As I said last night I made a bad judgment call that snowballed really quickly that has me now in the situation I am in. I take responsibility for that, not a sad story here. I'm not looking for sympathy or pity. I'm in the same way I've never been homeless before. I don't know how to get over this. I'm not a very dangerous person. I find myself in this situation. I'm trying to do the best I can. I am 47 years old, and I have no kids, and I come with no baggage that would get you in any way. If you are kind enough to house me for a while, or if I can find a place, I would be very appreciative. And this is so dangerous. I really don't want to have to live in this house or find every 2 days or so that just goes on. I want to go to a
