Hi there!

I am a jewelry artist and make leather bracelets and belts. I travel around the country and sell my jewelry at art fairs, bazaars, and holiday shows. Often I need to apply to be part of a "juried" art show which requires I submit my life's work via photos. Most often they only allow me to submit 4 or 5 photos which means I need images that capture and reflect my personality, image, quality of work, and creativeness in a snapshot.

I am wanting to hire a photographer to capture 4 or 5 great shots of my jewelry, myself, and my booth. I will need the photos delivered with very specific qualities. I have copied and will paste below the specifications that most of the art fairs require.

I can't wait to meet you! Please take a moment and tell me about yourself. What is your background? Where are you from? How long have you been taking photos? Do you have a website? Do you have references? How much will you charge to deliver these photos to my inbox? When are you available? How long will this process take from start to finish? The more details you can give the better.

Here is the websites recommendations..... https://www.zapplication.org/news_post.phtml?post_id=142

Here are some guidelines copied and pasted from a website.....

Photographing Your Artwork

We encourage artists to use professional photographers to document their artwork. Using professionals helps to ensure that your work is presented in the best way possible with proper lighting, image composition, and resolution of the digital images.

Adobe Photoshop (the industry standard photographer's tool set)

Adobe Photoshop Elements (offers fewer tools than the full version, but allows for formatting images to specifications at a lower price point). VIEW TUTORIAL.

Mac Users: The application "Preview" can format images to specifications.

Online Resources: Sumo, Aviary, and Pixlr are some of the few websites out there that offer image editing right in the browser. VIEW TUTORIAL

Adding Black Borders

Black borders are no longer required. A majority of the events using jury using the monitor method, which displays artists' images on a black background. The system will automatically add black borders to images that are submitted to events using the projected jury.
