Is your computer running slower and slower?

Over time normal use will result in performance degradation.

Performance can be restored by running repair software and rebuilding the directory.

Maybe you just upgraded the operating system and now your computer is not as fast as it was. You may need more RAM or just a rebuild of the internal directories.

Have you had your Apple computer for more than two years and it seems to be running hot? The fans in your computer run 100% of the time when it is on.

This results in dust and lent being caught in the heat sink that will cause it to run hotter.

Heat causes all sorts of problems for computers and is best avoided if at all possible.

The only way to alleviate this is to take is apart and clean it out.

Bring it in for a $50.00 comprehensive tune up.

This includes internal cleaning and electronic diagnostics.

Also included is scanning for malware and adware.

You will be notified if mechanical problems are found, hard drive, logic board failure etc. and costs associated with full repairs clearly stated before any further work is done.
