So here's the scoop. My last band ended about a month ago and I'd really like to get back out there and play. That being said, I'm looking to form a two person bluesy garage rock band in a similar vein to The Black Keys, The White Stripes, Arctic Monkeys, Jet, etc. that does mostly original material with a few covers interspersed in the set. I want to record a full album of stuff and then do as many gigs as possible to promote it. I have some song ideas already; a couple of which are mostly fleshed out. I need a drummer who is close to my age (25 years old) who has a passion for this kind of stuff and wants to maybe get somewhere.

If you hit me up please let me know the following:

- Who you are.
- Where you're from.
- What kind of equipment you have.
- If you have reliable transportation.
- What your influences are.

If you can also send me demos or videos of you playing, that would be pretty swell too. We would probably be practicing at my house in Highland, IN unless you have a better place for us to get together that isn't too far from here. I hope to hear from you!
