I am seeking a live in situation in exchange for work to keep my life simple during this transition.

I am from Seattle, WA & hoping to find an opportunity where I can dive into what I want without being limited by all the what ifs that have held me back before.

I am by no means erratic while this is out of my comfort zone but I don't want to live out of fear because the only result would be regret.

As for what I have to offer you: (references definitely available!)

- I have experience at a retired manor- not dementia or mental illness related
- Grew up being the oldest of 4 so babysitting is second nature
- I believe cleaning is a form of meditation &I can perform properly
- Humble enough to get dirty with any physical labor growing up as Daddy's girl

My strengths & passions:

- Always excelled in school, volunteer work, and graduated with Honors
- Writing & literature
- Creative & great with art, graphic design, and computers are second nature
- I am very REAL full of great concepts, ideas for people, problem solver and full of love and understanding

Where I am in the real world at this point:

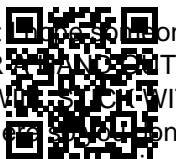

- I am very flexible with this: BUT my morals will always come first, I know who I am & what I am worth
- Currently working at a radio station part time in Washington State
- Applying for FAFSA in Jan. when it reopens to get some college courses under my belt.
- I see myself realistically pursuing psychology, human resources- something where I can help people come to their full potential or implement big concepts into action by recognizing relations.

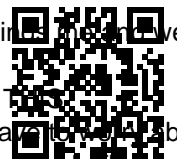

I know it's a little much but I hope someone finds me. I have had a hard time finding a place to live. I AM NOT LOOKING FOR A MANOR BUT I AM LOOKING FOR A PLACE & WORKING WITH THE MANOR. I have the desire to get the job done. I don't have to worry about it. Happy Holidays and please ask anything you need. Thanks for your time :)
