If you have a desire to express yourself musically on a string instrument, and you're maybe not sure which instrument to begin to learn- the ukulele is a great way to get started. The soprano ukulele has a such nice mellow, learning chords is much easier compared to guitar, mandolin or banjo and a quality ukulele can be bought for under a $100. There are many ukulele books available for playing songs of your choice with a few beginning chords. And, the ukulele can be a good introduction instrument to playing other instruments such as guitar- if that might be a personal goal.

I teach in home lessons for ukulele, banjo and guitar to ages 5 & up in the Raleigh, Garner, Wendell and Knightdale areas on Monday, Thursday afternoon/evening and on Saturdays . I offer lessons in individual and group settings.. Learning music theory (as it relates to the student's progress); developing a sense of rhythm, phrasing & melody are also part of the lessons, as well as learning the fundamentals of learning to read music. (Some students may choose not learn reading of music as part of lessons, so we can base lessons on developing knowledge of chords & developing rhythms & learning chosen songs.

I also offer lessons in music studios in Clayton, Raleigh and Knightdale where the student comes to one of these locations in that is your preference.

I hope you enjoy these student pictures. Also, if you put in Google 'facebook Charlie Nick, click more and videos, I have posted many videos of my students performing.
