Model Info:
FURBERG SNOWBOARDS is the first brand to build snowboards with a turning radius that ends outside of the bindings and passes on to a reverse sidecut towards the nose and the tail. The reverse sidecut makes the transition from turning radius to nose and tail very smooth and long. Thanks to this the board does not cut through the snow in the same way as regular boards, since the pressure is distributed over a larger section of the edge. The result is a highly maneuverable and catch free board that is super easy to ride with sliding turns in any type of snow.
High-speed stability in combination with maneuverable and catch free properties has made the Freeride Split (formerly named "the Splitboard") one of the most talked about boards of the last years. After intense product development and testing, we can proudly say that we've now managed to take this design a big step further.

Long sidecut radius makes the board calm and forgiving while rocker and reverse sidecut towards the board's binding makes it stay on top of any snow.
The Freeride Split has a slightly longer effective edge and even smoother transitions towards the tail, which has eased the mounting without losing the catch free properties. By incorporating a slight camber on the center section, the stability, pop and responsiveness have increased considerably. This unique design also adds grip and stability in skinning mode.
Furberg is convinced that the new Freeride Split will be the most versatile and game changing freeride board you've ever!
