I'm talking about AdrenalineMichigan.com!

This is a very high energy project with a very high energy product! Safety being paramount.

A website far ahead of yellow pages or currently available web resources for every single extreme sports activity and event exclusive to the State of Michigan. Careful not to spread ourselves too thin because the web is full of that already. Research in this subject only gave many examples showing huge deficiencies in current web resources. This problem is being thoroughly solved by creating a regional resource.

The goal of the ad is finding extraordinary help with this project. For example someone who is involved directly with action sports who has professional experience in web design.

The site is up with bare bones because I did it all singlehanded with only introductory web design skills and software. The site traffic is there though even with very incomplete data too. I have statistics.

I've created an easy attraction to the website with an art contest offering prize money($500)!

Idea is that a State-wide and exclusive to Michigan artist contest will easily produce a logo that will be screen printed on merchandise and sold to help support development and expansion in the beginning.

AM will ideally create many paid and fun positions in the future all within the State too!

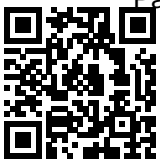

Possibly even creating a blueprint for other expansion.

There is an idea that this idea will draw further support and contributions as well.

Possibly accepting donations as well that will supplant award.

With support AM should start to support itself and then flourish!

Pass the word!
