QR Code Link to This Post Hi Grand Island! How well do you know people in your neighborhood?

Harvard's Digital Lab for the Social Sciences is a online research laboratory where, for one of the first times, anyone can participate in research from Harvard researchers. Social science research studies the society in which we live, and whether we can do anything to fix our problems.

We're calling on the people of Grand Island to help Prof. Ryan Enos understand neighborhood demographics and the various dynamics surrounding them. If you'd like to help us, it will only take 10 minutes. We'll show you pictures of maps and ask you how well you know where different types of people live.

We'll feature the results of the research when they come out on our website. Will you help us out?

Thank you Grand Island for your help!
