QR Code Link to This Post We are creating an online community that gives cash rewards to its members for healthy living habits while offering completely voluntary opportunities to join and contribute to research studies. Members earn points by connecting their favorite apps and doing activities such as walking, sleeping, logging food, or taking a health survey.

We've also previously partnered with Stanford and Brigham Women's Hospital/Harvard Medical School to conduct health research studies about common conditions (like high blood pressure or Type 2 Diabetes), in an effort to advance the science around health. You can contribute to these studies from home, and have the opportunity to earn compensation (up to several hundred dollars).

To participate in this program, you must be over 18 years of age and live in the US.

If you're interested in learning more about how to join this project, please contact our research team.
