After an arrest for Domestic Violence (DV), a No Contact Order is normally issued by the court. Each violation of this order will result in an additional criminal charge.

A DV lawyer should be contacted immediately following an arrest to begin mitigating the criminal consequences and prevent additional charges from being filed. The majority of domestic violence arrests are made without strong evidence and this can work in your favor.

At Beckwith DV Law, we fight domestic violence charges daily in the courts of Seattle, Bellevue, Tacoma, and throughout Puget Sound. We know the law and we know how to fight DV charges.

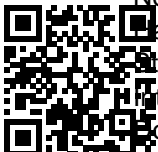

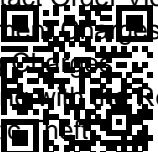

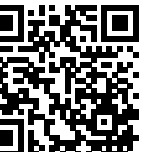

Call us any day of the week for a free consultation.

Domestic Violence Practice Areas include:

Domestic Assault
Malicious Mischief or Destruction of Property

No Contact Order Violations

Harassment
Stalking
Interfering with Reporting of Domestic Violence
