QR Code Link to This Post Let me teach you how to play piano! I am a recent graduate of Peabody Conservatory and have available time for students in Baltimore! Piano has been a part of my life since I was 5 years old and this school year is my 5th year of teaching privately. I teach all levels from beginner to advanced high school level.

A little bit about my methods: I believe in using scales, exercises and etudes as a technical basis for all my students. The repertoire they learn, however, is largely determined by their musical goals. I recognize that some students love to learn classical but others may rather want to learn pop, rock or other genres. I cater my style to each individual and think this is very important.

I also teach violin and viola and offer discounts for multiple back to back lessons.
