QR Code Link to This Post Hi, I'm Meisha and I'm creating an online community for young black women building life paths we love. That means something different to each of us, but the bottom line is: this is a space for those of us unapologetically choosing a path we love over a path "we're supposed to take."

I'd like us to build this community together, starting with a podcast that tells our stories and growing into meetups and who knows what else. I just want you to leave our space inspired, and knowing that you're able. Every time.

If you'd like to join, please send me the best email address to reach you at.

Can't wait to build with you,

- M
