She's great with kids, cats, FULLY HOUSED TRAINED - has NEVER had an accident.

Plays fetch, all around great dog. I am returning to work and can't keep her.

She is a VERY loyal dog but takes a while to warm up to strangers.

If you adopt her, the first 3 days or so she'll be extra skittish. When she sees that you feed her and are nice, she suddenly warms right up.

She won't run away and is kennel trained.

Spayed, healthy, about 1.5 years old, loves to ride in the car, chases a laser pointer, comes with food that she has left and toys. No papers.

Let me emphasize, she will take a few days to warm up to you, but after that is great.

If I can't find her a home soon she will be taken to the pound. This is a last-ditch attempt to help her avoid that, as the pound isn't a good place for a dog who doesn't warm up to strangers well.
