Superstitious?

"Wow our move day was one to remember with me 8 ½ months pregnant it was a nightmare. It started with my bedroom mirror being dropped so I guess we should have known it was going to go downhill from there.

"My mum slipped as we were taking the washing machine down the stairs (we moved from a flat), her top set of teeth came flying out and broke in half so she was mortified and had to go to the dentist ASAP as her husband never seen her without teeth, so we were one down. Then my sister banged her hand on the door frame carrying boxes out and dislocated her knuckle so she was off down A&E with my dad taking her so now, 3 down, I thought things couldn't get any worse when my waters broke and I went into labour....so I'm standing in an empty flat my waters have broken I have nearly all my stuff in the lorry and now I've got to get to the hospital, we had to be driven to maternity in the removal van - we must have looked like a bunch of crazy people."

"I was in maternity for 4 hours when my son was born I was panicking thinking what's going to happen as we have nothing ready in our new house so the tears started....I was discharged the next day thinking I will be going back to a house turned upside down but my lovely partner and family had worked throughout the day and night and completely unpacked and set out our new house so Connor and I could be comfy. It was lovely and to be honest left me very emotional! My son's room was completely set out too so Pooler Chatham County

Luckily I still had the keys to my flat so a few days later I went and said my goodbyes to my old home that looked so different now.... Don't think I'll ever forget that day and the kindness of people, well, it is now my son's birthday!!"
