QR Code Link to This Post We are a duo of drums and horns (Sax, Clarinet, Flute). We are both clasically trained and have years of experience in bands and live performance. Our vision is to create a blend of electronica and jazz with drums, horns and keys. The horns are leveraging an array of pedals and loopers. Eventually, we may add a singer. A good example of the sound we are going for is the British band 'The Comet is Coming'. You can see a link below. We are not seeking to copy this sound but it serves as a guide post. Below you also find a couple of scrappy recordings we recently did in our rehearsal space (not for distribution, just for us).

We are looking for somebody who is able to improvise and also follow a composition. You know how to put together a compelling tapestry of sounds while augmenting the beat occasionally and play melodies. Our drummer can play with a click, so we can work with loops. Ideally, you bring some analog noise makers (Moog, Nord) and can work with samples and patters.

Right now we practice at Lightrail studios about once a week. We have a rehearsal space set up.
