QR Code Link to This Post The Consumer Decision & Sustainable Behavior Lab (<http://www.unige.ch/fapse/decisionlab/>) at the University of Geneva are looking for participants in a research study measuring how you behave in regards to environmentally relevant actions throughout the day. Five times a day, you will be sent a text message containing a hyperlink to a short survey which will ask questions about different behaviors you have done or learned about/witnessed within the last hour. In order to participate in this study, we require that you own a smartphone with Internet access (thus, you will need to have an active 'data plan') and that you answer as many surveys as you can. If you choose not to participate, or discontinue your participation, you are free to do so at any time. Additionally, all participants must be at least 18 years old to participate.

Prospective participants can find more information about this project and sign up directly at :
