QR Code Link to This Post I have a ProVore 380 that is in perfect working order. It's actually just a pipe I need fixed. It's too dark for me to see exactly, but I'm pretty sure I had a coupling come loose. I've basically got a grinder pump that is shooting out waste now. It's an easy fix. But I don't have the parts/tools/materials/time.

Even basic plumbing skills should resolve this. A professional plumber should have all the parts/tools/materials on hand to fix it.

I have added photos so you can be sure you are willing to fix it and have the correct replacement part and materials to ensure it doesn't come apart again. You can see that there are 2 pipes that have come apart. It's really an easy fix, but I want it fixed so it doesn't happen again.

You can come TONIGHT or first thing tomorrow morning at 8:30 AM.

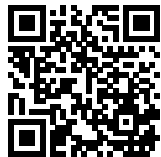

I'm located very close to Vancouver Mall.

I will have CASH.
