QR Code Link to This Post Are you looking to improve your English skills to succeed at work, at school, or in your social life? My name's Chris, and I'd love to help!

I have a PhD in linguistics, and I'm a certified ESL teacher, with a focus on test prep (TOEFL, IELTS, etc.) and business English. Why choose me? Because my background means that I know exactly what kind of language you'll need to do well.

I've worked as a college instructor. I know what your teachers and professors expect from you. Whether you're a native English speaker or a second-language learner, I can help you improve your writing and in-class speaking skills.

I've worked in the business world. I know what kinds of language you'll need to master to be successful at work.

I've taught students getting ready for the TOEFL. I know what kinds of skills that standardized tests will test you on, and how you can get ready.

I'm available for both short-term and long-term tutoring. Whether it's looking over a single assignment, or working with you on a regular basis to help you improve your English skills, I look forward to working with you!
