QR Code Link to This Post 2007 Nissan Quest Mini-Van. Silver with gray interior. Second Owner. No smoking, pet friendly home/car. Have had for about 10 years. Great car. Has some mechanical and electrical issues that the home mechanic could easily fix. Cleaned up, this car could fetch 3,500-4K. We loved this car for our family. All seats folded down - great for the short woman/mom. Pick-up speed is great for dashing out of parking lots or getting into traffic after school pick-up and drop off. Turning radius is supreme. and lots of cup holders plus a place for your purse or bag or little dog. Those were my criteria for choosing it anyway. And it looks cool and drives like a cloud- when tuned up and with new tires. There is some front end and body damage from dents - car doors, punk kids, turkey vulture on I-5 and 18 wheeler tire tread - that was a scary moment. Windshield was just replaced and oil changed. needs to be cleaned inside and out. I have all of the service records and the owners manual. For a solid $2K, I'm including the roof rack and hitch. If lowballing this van, I'm taking those amenities off. They are worth $500 in their own right. If you are handy with cars or have the $$ to get all of the misc items fixed (i have the list to review from the mechanic), this is the van for you. This is also a very safe van for your new teenage driver. My girls loved it and felt very secure driving it. We are letting it go because we got our kids another car with less problems. Cash.
