QR Code Link to This Post Hello. I am a 57 year old female with a two year old adopted son looking for a position as a live-in housekeeper.

I'm not looking to get paid for this position, but instead receive free room and board in return for the housekeeping. I would cook, clean, do laundry, run errands, do the grocery shopping, some yard work, and what other little tasks you may have.

I do not drink or do drugs although I do smoke but I smoke outside.

I lost my job in November and I cannot pay my rent on the room that I am renting. So I thought maybe there was a gentleman out there living alone who needs a housekeeper and someone to cook for him and do his laundry, Etc. In return for free room and board. I am actively seeking employment So eventually I will be working to support my son and I and I would do the household chores are my days off and in the evenings although I will cook every night.

This is not an offer of a relationship or sexual favors either, the household chores and that's it.

I'm decent woman who respects herself and I'm just looking for a way to put a roof over me and my son's head.

So if you have a spare room and need someone to take care of your household chores and errands and such please respond back to.
