QR Code Link to This Post I am looking for a person that is a problem solver, that is able to reach out to clients and resolve issues. We have a staff of about 30 people, and no one that currently handles customer retention.

For this particular position, we're looking for a person to focus on old clients only. We have a list that we would like to have someone reach out to and see what we can do to get them to resign with us.

Please send a resume and or tell me about your client retention skills. Looking to have this position filled within a week and if this posting is still up, then we're still looking to fill the position.

I am ok with someone that doesn't have experience as long as they are capable of getting the job done.

If needed, you can text me regarding this position, put please let me know what position you're applying for as I do have multiple ads.
