QR Code Link to This Post Hello,

I have two very sweet sugar gliders to rehome. I adore these two beyond words, but I just got a promotion at work which will force me to travel, and these guys need more attention than I will be able to give.

I paid $400 for the sugar gliders, $150 for their large cage, $100 for their small (travel) cage, and about $200 in cage supplies (toys, a wheel, bonding pouches, bonding scarf, etc. I also have a lot of the supplements they need, as well as some pellet food which is NOT their main diet. They are standard gray gliders. I had them in for fecal exams two months ago and all was fine.

Please PLEASE do your research on these animals before you think about maybe getting them. They have special dietary requirements and are nocturnal.

I'm asking $600 obo for my girls and their supplies. Please tell me why your home would be a great fit for them.
