QR Code Link to This Post Roxy came into our lives a year ago when one of my 4 kid's girlfriends wanted a rescue pit bull JUST LIKE OURS . Her family adopted lovely miss Roxy as a new pup and she has all her shots and also has been micro chipped. They kept the lovely Miss R for a month or so but they have one of those yappie purse dogs at home, who ruled the roost and who just wouldn't accept the new gal.

I wanted nothing to do with a second dog.... four kids.... 1 dog already... NO THANKS..... the kids surrounded me in an intervention type setting with pleads and tears and how can we not take her in and send her back to the shelter...

So we kept her... and 1 year later the only damn person this dog really likes is me!...The kids are not fond of her ... They kind of like her sometimes... but not really too much... They cant walk her she is way too strong on the lease...and I even broke my foot walking the lovely Miss R...She pulled too hard and I tumbled to a fractured foot.... a 4 month and still counting experience.

My other pit tolerates her, they do get along Okay since they live together.... but she has no tolerance for any other dogs.

She has never bit anyone but will snarl and bark at any visitors who come to our house But of course she loves me and wants to curl up at my feet every night and protect ME to her death...but she is just not a family dog... so if you happen to be holed up in the woods on a 5 acre plus piece of land... someone like a Uni-bomber type loner (without the bombs of course) and hate people, but want a companion dog who will protect and guard you to her last breath.... Roxy is your Christmas miracle!!!!....
