Our founder was looking for a way to increase revenue in his own insurance agency, and discovered telemarketing was the answer. After 2 years of successful calling for his own agency, Omega Contact Solutions was developed as a separate company with a mission to obtain the same results for other insurance agencies in the United States. Soon, we realized that Insurance Agencies were not the only class of business that could excel with a good quality call campaign. Today we call for a variety of businesses and campaigns that cover the entire United States. Our management team has over 15 years in the call center business. Our callers all have call center experience and are compensated by the success of your campaign.
