QR Code Link to This Post To Everyone who lives in the Anchorage area be aware of the Hallmark in the Diamond Mall. I went there the other day to pick out a present for my work's gift exchange party. The manager immediately approached me and shoved a very expensive item in my face and demanded that I buy it. I politely refused to buy the item because I was on a budget and didn't appreciate his attitude. I then walked to the other side of the store to look at different items and the whole time I was browsing, I could feel the same manager's eyes staring at me as he followed me through out the store. As I picked up the item I was going to purchase, the manager grabbed it out of my hands and said, " leave the store now." You weren't interested in anything I showed you so I don't want you shopping here! Right after this incident occurred. I called corporate to complain about what had happened but they more than likely condone this rude and irrigant behavior because I haven't heard a word back from them at all!!!! Please avoid what I went through and purchase a item from a store that appreciates there.
