

Hi, I'm searching for actresses who are interested in training in an eclectic blend of South East Asian martial arts. Also, for other female martial artists/athletes of other disciplines who would like to add to their martial arts arsenal. I have a group of male actors and want to have a group of actresses together. It is a mix of Filipino Kali/Eskrima (sticks/blades/improvised weapons/empty hands) and Indonesian Pencak Silat (blades/empty hands/sweeps/limb destructions) with a Jeet Kune Do concept approach (Bruce Lee's philosophy for martial arts). We will work on drills, techniques, and very light sparring to hone your self attributes and self perfection. South East Asian martial arts have been showcased in many films and television shows: Filipino Kali/Eskrima (The Bourne Series, 300, Book of Eli, Taken, Arrow tv series); Indonesian Pencak Silat (The Raid: Redemption, The Raid 2: Berandal, Star Wars Episode 7: The Force Awakens). I have trained under the fight instructor for Liam Neeson in the film, Taken. This is a great way to build your resume with martial arts skills. I am working as a fight choreographer for an upcoming web series, so this may be a great opportunity for you guys on top of learning an effective form or fighting. Also, I am located in the North Orange County area (Fullerton). Below are some examples of both Kali/Eskrima and Silat. Please feel free to email me. Looking forward to hearing from you! Best regards.

<http://news.abs-cbn.com/entertainment/08/04/16/watch-anne-curtis-shows-off-combat-skills-in-new-film>

<https://youtu.be/2XCCFBNV--o>

For actresses or martial artists interested in IndoFilipino Arts

