

Manny is about 7 months old and is fully vetted. He has his shots including rabies and distemper with the follow-up distemper booster. He has also been wormed twice along with 4 treatments of the prescription Advantage Multi for ear mites and worms.

He comes from a cat colony I attend ... I have 3 others from the same colony ... all three guys are incredible ...

Upon His first vet visit ... His bloodwork showed fine ... No FIV or FeLV ... but 25 minutes into the test a faint line showed up on the feline leukemia side of the test. When tested again on His return trip for neutering (10/31) a faint line showed again. Because of this He can not be with my clan and needs to be the only cat in the house. He may have been exposed through the birth canal (Mother) which passes on the antigens ... thus the faint undefined line ... some cats test negative 6 mo to a year out. Because of His great health and casual demeanor my highly experienced Vet would not entertain destroying Him. He said he had some cats who tested the same and are over 10 years old with no health problems.

grain free wet food. (Petco) By His head/feet size I would feel He is going to be a big cat like two of the ones I rescued/vetted from the same colony. He uses His litter box like a champion. I am using "World's Best" cat litter. Has not been taken to any vet.

...to make a long story longer ... I'm looking for someone that can love Marry a good and for home and give love. He needs little room to live and I may that he provide more space he can live together with my family ... this time ... I was a boy ... I was a bath ... I was a play in ... I was a how many ... I was a "thin" ... I provide He deserves so much more ... like my others. I also insist that He not be de-clawed as it is just wrong in so many ways. He has to be the only cat ... as far as a dog ... I don't know. I do know He has "bills" when he pull out the vacuum... my 3 dogs run to the next room or next floor when I turn on the vacuum ... He runs out and plays with it the whole time ... He's a crazy one.

So are you someone that can make this wonderful guy's dreams come true?
