How updating your website works

Updating your website is pretty simple, really. Just send me a message or give me a call and let me know what you want to add or change on your website. Whether your website is built with basic html or uses a content management system like WordPress, I can take care of the updates for you at my hourly rate. No subscriptions or hidden costs -- you simply pay for the time it takes to make the updates.

Things we can update on your website

Some of my clients rely on me for periodic content updates, and let me know when they want to add new pages or content to their website. Others have the time to do basic updates themselves, but rely on me to add scripts or custom functionality like contact forms, blogs and other more advanced features they aren't interested in tackling themselves.

Whether you're looking for basic content updates like adding new pages, text, images and videos, or if you want to integrate a content management system, a contact form or some other custom functionality, I'm happy to help you do it and as always, keep it simple, communicate how long it will take, and bill at my hourly rate when the work is done.

Let's work together to update your site

When you're ready to update your website, just give me a call or send me a message and I'll give you a bit about what you're looking to have done on the website, give you a rough idea of how long it should take, will get to work, and let you know when your website updates are complete!

Best regards,
