QR Code Link to This Post Hi there. I'm rehoming my female single maned lionhead bunny who is two years this August. She comes with his cage, water dish, and food dish. She not have a litter box as of now, but has litter trained in the past and would be easily trained again. She is very very gentle and relaxed, but can be skiddish in new environments. I've never had biting problems with her, and she is just a really nice lap rabbit. She's had one litter of three in the past, and is a very good mother. She is the smallest lionhead I have had, if you're interested in little cute animals. I'm rehoming her because I'm trying to downsize my animals and focus on ducks.

She is $75 with her
