QR Code Link to This Post Full size wood desktop is in great shape. Treadmill works perfectly like any ordinary treadmill, complete with incline. Bought this for $2500. One little quirk though and I never had time to figure it out (and didn't care enough) is that I have to press start when it reaches 1.66 miles. I only walk 1 mph while working so it never mattered. At most I might walk 3 miles in a day if I'm in the office all day. At that speed I can type and be on the phone and not be distracted. Don't want to work up a sweat during the work day! Only took a day and a half to get used to it. It does feel a little weird at first but then you don't even know you're walking when you're busy working! I love this thing and wish I didn't have to part with it. I'm moving and have nowhere to put it where I'm.
