QR Code Link to This Post My daughter in law was in a bad accident this morning on her way home from work, she rolled a few times now her vehicle is totalled, thankfully tho she made it out with just a few bumps and bruises due to having her seatbelt on but now has no way to take her son to necessary appts or even grocery shopping or for her to get to work . My son has a truck but he is either at classes in Norfolk or at work. I realize being so close to Christmas it is a lot to ask of anyone and I would help if I could but I'm on disability and it's almost gone paying bills that is why I'm reaching out to anyone out there, anything will help and would be more than appreciated! They are just starting out so money is very tight for them, and now with this accident and no vehicle Christmas is going to be a little short for them especially my grand son. I want to much to be able to help them since I am not able to financially this is only way I could think of being able to help them, when the accident happened most of the items that were in it ended up being scattered all over we don't even know if whoever cleans up put the items back in the vehicle, the main thing is my son's tools for his classes there was several that he had in there but now most likely lost to the wreck and he has no way to replace them since they were bought with what he got for financial assistance and he only gets that at beginning of a semester , with what he gets in the spring he won't be able to use to replace what was lost it will have to go towards what his next classes are for.

Thank you for at least taking the time to read this, bless you all and merry
