QR Code Link to This Post So we got a kitten about a year ago and she was alone in a kennel placed in the garage when we got her. She never learned social skills with humans or animals until we took her in. She took awhile to get used to our other cat and they became incredibly close. Well we got a dog and she stayed away from the dog for the longest time until she got pregnant. Well Talia became aggressive towards our dog and the other cat that she was so close to. She can no longer be in a house with other pets and we hate to let her go but we just have no choice. She is a sweetheart when she is alone. As long as she is in a home with no animals or young children she will thrive and be comfortable and that is what we want for her. We love her very much so for the right person or people we will give her to you. If you have any questions about her feel free to.
