Production Description

Casting "Smile," a short film. Synopsis: Wilson--an alcoholic nihilist--lives alone in his home, and has no plans to leave.

His hatred for the world around him (society and the media) is fueled once again when Benny, his son, arrives to persuade his father to live with him.

This visit turns into a heated argument that touches on ignorance, love, philosophy, and hopefully, understanding. Wilson's loss of faith has one silver lining, however. It rests in his mouth...

Roles Collapse All Roles

Wilson (Lead): Male, 40+ requires nudity (buttocks); mid-70s. The character of Wilson is portrayed as nihilistic, and a bit unnerving. Sporadic at times, and short fused. He is a hermit. Has no hope for society. Mumbles and talks to himself occasionally. Gray hair, unshaven.
Ethnicity: Caucasian

Benny (Supporting): Male, 24-38
portrayed as ignorant. Thinks only on the surface. Has a hard time understanding his father's (Wilson) philosophical outlook on life and the world around him.

Has a daughter and a wife. Main objective is to get Wilson to leave his house and stay with him. Concerned that his father has gone crazy, and is worried about his well-being. Caucasian, slim-build, brown hair.

Ethnicity: Caucasian
