But what if you don't have a clear path to that goal and are having trouble figuring out what to do next? How do you ensure you are not spinning your wheels and instead are making the right moves to propel your music career forward? I am available to help you with the tools and the guidance you need so that you can reach as many music fans as possible.

Your engagement with me can be as simple and as affordable as hiring me as your song doctor. You will receive an in-depth review of your songs from a music insider and I will work with you constructively to make your songs the best they can be. In terms of marketing, I can also oversee all the different aspects related to releasing your music including playlist promotion, social media marketing, and video production and promotion. I'm available to give you an honest assessment of how to achieve your dreams of being a successful recording artist.

I am 23 year music industry veteran and have done A&R for two major label groups and managed artists signed to every major label group as well as a few indies.Â Most recently I have worked in the areas of artist management and marketing, specifically with unsigned acts.Â Feel free to reach out and schedule a time for us to have a call.Â I don't do high pressure sales and I'm also very much for real.Â This isn't a promise to make you rich and famous.Â It's a promise to make the most of your resources and expand your fan base. An initial call will consist of you telling me about your project and then I can advise you on how I can help.Â Feel free to send me a message to set up a time to schedule a call.
