About Acurian:

curians, especially that involves people for health research studies. We are currently working with the Uganda local communities and individuals who are willing to participate in health research studies in your area. In a clinical research study, the participant may receive investigation or study product or may receive an incentive, assistance or payment, depending on the study design. Participants receive study reimbursement from a sponsor research team for the duration of the study. Reasonable payments will be made for participation and the cost of the study.
