QR Code Link to This Post I'm a single mom, 2017 hasn't been kind to me. I'm currently working 1.5 jobs just trying to make ends meet but its starting to feel like I'm swimming up river. My pride has kept me from seeking out organizations for assistance and leave it to me to hit my breaking point after its too late. I've always worked extra hard to provide my children with everything they needed/wanted. Due to a disagreement with family I'm having to seek out a new place to live. From there it just goes downhill. Christmas most likely will have to be postponed til the end of January. Currently have 3 gifts in total. That's not even enough to cover one gift each. I feel defeated and Dont know where to turn. I've always provided my children with the best I could. I'm not looking for someone to swoop in and pay my way, just looking for suggestions or advice. I know I can turn this around, just Dont know where to start. Thank you and hope you have a blessed day. Happy.
