My name is Nicolette Tigno and I'm a 4th year occupational therapy student in New York. I'm back home in Granby for the holidays for about two months. If any mamas are looking for occasional/part time babysitting/childcare, I have a pretty flexible schedule and would love to offer my services.

I have years of experience with childcare, children's camp counseling and children's sports coach (gymnastics.). I have a reliable car for transportation and can get kids to their activities or play dates and back home.

Due to my area of study in the health/medical field and experience with children, I think that Connecticut parents who need childcare and specifically want a highly experienced college student dedicated to the wellbeing of their children would feel comfortable and secure to have their kids in loyal and trustworthy hands. I think some particular parents would appreciate this is they are cautious with childcare.

Please let me know how to go about getting my information out to offer my services. Thank you in advance for your help!
