QR Code Link to This Post I have a six month old male Pom /Chihuahua- Rocco who needs a forever home! I have been fostering him and he was supposed to go to a home but it fell through due to her Having unexpected illnesses. He has been vet checked, current on shots until a year old, de-wormed 2x. He is a great dog! He knows how to sit, come, knows how to walk on a leash, is potty trained, and kennel trained when at work. I will not go to whoever responds first, I will go to whoever I feel is the perfect home for him. There will be a one-week trial period, and will need to see the home first. The ideal home for Rocco would have another small/med dog For him to play with, children over 5 because he loves kids and the attention, a fully fenced in yard, and someone who can spend quality time with him each day- NOT A family that will not pay attention to him after the newness is over! He's not much of a yapper. Please only serious interest respond and why you think you could give him the perfect forever home! There is a rehoming fee for cost that we have already put into him and to make sure that he goes to a good home. I would totally keep him myself if I could, but we already have a dog and with both of our schedules we just don't have enough time that he needs. He is around 15 pounds And will not get any.
