Austria is a rather moderate and forward-thinking nation in Europe. It should thus not be surprising that there are not many strict cannabis restrictions. However, be aware that Salzburg's police and residents might not be as understanding as those in Vienna. Since 2016, Austria no longer criminalizes the possession of small quantities of cannabis. This indicates that the only payment you may make is a fine. However, it is up to the authorities in Salzburg to determine what constitutes a modest amount for personal possession, so how you behave and how the weed is package is crucial. Even if each baggie contains only a little amount of cannabis, avoid carrying several of them.

It's critical to remember that, despite Austria's high level of tolerance for marijuana, the  is still illegal. Try to refrain from smoking weed in public to avoid the fines, which may be rather expensive in Salzburg.
